and the Internships for Credit program (EGN 4941). Secondary responsibilities include teaching specific undergraduate courses in CECE that relate to design or standard of care, e.g., Engineering Reports & Liability (CGN 3090), assessment related activities, and service to the department. The selected candidate is expected to support the department's teaching mission.

With more than 1,200 undergraduate and 250 graduate students, the CECE Department offers doctoral and master's programs in Civil and Environmental Engineering and ABET-accredited bachelor's programs in Civil, Environmental, and Construction Engineering. Over 30 tenured/tenure-track faculty members and six lecturers conduct the instructional and research activities in addition to a vibrant community of adjunct faculty. CECE offers potential opportunities for professional growth and enjoys excellent partnerships with local and regional companies. For more details regarding the department and university, please visit www.cece.ucf.edu and www.ucf.edu.

Minimum Qualifications:

An earned master's degree (for instructor) or doctorate (for lecturer) in Civil Engineering or a closely related field from an accredited institution at the time of appointment.

For the associate lecturer, a doctorate in Civil Engineering or a closely related discipline from an accredited institution and five years of experience as associate lecturer or equivalent at a four-year institution are required.

Three or more years of full-time experience in the Civil, Environmental, or Construction Engineering industry.

Preferred Qualifications:

Preference will be given to candidates with prior university-level teaching experience, previous engineering teaching experience with Senior/Capstone design, and to those who possess a Professional Engineering (PE) license in the United States.

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, <https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/>. In addition to the
