Job Description

The Department of Civil, Construction and Environmental Engineering (CCEE: <https://cce.eng.ua.edu/>) and the College of Engineering (CoE: <https://eng.ua.edu/>) at The University of Alabama (UA: <https://ua.edu/>) invite applications for multiple tenure-track and tenured faculty positions at all ranks, including Assistant, Associate, and Full Professor levels, within the CCEE department.

This posting is specific for candidates applying for a full professor position leading to appointment to the endowed Garry Neil Drummond Chair in Civil and Environmental Engineering or Thad J. and the Nona F. Gomillion Professorship in Civil Engineering. We are seeking a collaborative, collegial leader with a strong track record of building multi-disciplinary teams across the broad areas of architectural, civil, construction and environmental engineering.

Candidates with prestigious achievements in their field and exceptional national and international reputations will be eligible for consideration for significant endowment support through appointment as an Endowed Shelby Distinguished Professor (<https://provost.ua.edu/the-shelby-endowment-for-distinguished-faculty/>). These Endowed Shelby Distinguished Professor are one of the most prestigious honors bestowed upon faculty at The University of Alabama. Candidates wishing to be considered for such an appointment should indicate this in their cover letter.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned Ph.D. in Architectural, Civil, Construction or Environmental Engineering or a closely related discipline from an accredited institution.
- Demonstrated record of prior research work and a record of impactful scholarly publications in refereed journals, conference proceedings, and similarly impactful venues.
- Leadership of substantial research endeavors at the lab, center or institute levels along with mentorship of early career colleagues.
- Demonstrated interest and/or record in engineering and/or education and professional service in area(s) of specialization.
- National and/or international stature in the field.
- Effective verbal and written communication skills.
- Show the potential to construct and sustain a quality research program.

Excellence in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants must also meet all university criteria for appointment to the rank of Full Professor.

Preferred Qualifications

- Have 10+ years of experience as a tenure-track/tenured faculty member at a leading peer R1 institution.
 - Demonstrated a record of high-quality research and scholarly publications that is recognized nationally and/or internationally.
 - Significant record of scholarship in architectural, civil, construction, or environmental engineering, or a closely related department with both undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
 - Attainment, progress toward or demonstrated interest in professional licensure or other applicable professional certification (FE or PE).
 - Exceptional collegial, interpersonal, and mentoring skills.
