programs with a balance between undergraduate and graduate levels; a record of leadership in professional societies and interaction with industry. Demonstrate the vision and desire to develop interdisciplinary programs and ability to develop a vision for a graduate program and enhance graduate student recruitment. Candidates should demonstrate strong administrative and financial management abilities; academic leadership; communications and relationship-building skills with students, faculty, staff and alumni.

Oklahoma State University is located in Stillwater, Oklahoma, an exciting community in north central Oklahoma, approximately 60 miles from larger cities of Oklahoma City and Tulsa. The division has 22 tenure-track faculty members and 3 non-tenure track faculty. The Division of Engineering Technology offers four B. S. degree programs and one M. S. program. The bachelor of science degrees include Construction Management Technology, Electrical Engineering Technology, Fire Protection and Safety Engineering Technology and Mechanical Engineering Technology. The master of science program is in Fire Protection and Safety Engineering Technology. The programs in the Division of Engineering Technology are accredited by the Technology Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, Inc. (ABET). The division has strong support from alumni, friends, and industry. For more information about the school and its successes can be found by visiting <http://tech.okstate.edu>.

Review of applications will begin on November 10, and continue until the position is filled. The target starting date is fall 2018. Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.okstate.edu>. Submit a single pdf including a letter of application; curriculum vitae; statement of capabilities and qualifications for academic department management; statement of philosophy on engineering education, research, and academic management; and contact information for at least five professional references. Questions may be directed by email to Dr. Chulho Yang at chulho.yang@okstate.edu.
